

Qrater, © by Dirk Wynants

year of creation / 2004

Qrater is a very attractive open fire dish made out of weathering steel that can be used in the garden and in open spaces. Weathering steel is a special type of outdoor steel onto which a protective coating has been applied, making it rust only on the steels surface. As a result, further erosion due to rain or fire is prevented and the Qrater can be left outside without a problem. A small hole in the center of the dish also evacuates the water into a dish incorporated into its galvanised steel pedestal. This pedestal also prevents the heat from harming the surface the Qrater is put on, as there is no direct contact between the dish and the floor.

All you need is to light the wood logs and the result is magic. Looking at the constantly changing play of the flames and the fire sparks has inspired people ever since fire was discovered by man. Often people even refer to it as the television set of the jungle. Options like individual grills, blankets, and yes, a sing along cd also form part of this unique experience of being together around the fire.

	code		∅ x H / L x W x H
	QCT145	Qrater schaal, sokkel en pook dish, tripod and poker Schale, Sockel und Feuerhaken	145 cm x 25 cm
<hr/>
		Opties / Options / Optionen
	QS	standaard voor grill (inclusief vleesspies) standard for grill (skewer included) Standard für Rost (inklusive Spieß)	1,4 cm x 72 cm
	QR	rooster (vereist standaard) grill (requires standard) Rost (benötigt Standard)	60 cm x 30,5 cm