

Don't ruin your reputation

A builder and two engineers who approved the use of uncertified and structurally flawed material on a Sydney construction site have been exposed by authorities. The offending imported Chinese plywood was removed from the site under instructions from the NSW Work Cover Authority. Unfortunately, this is not an isolated case, but laws are being enforced in Australia and New Zealand to stamp out the problem.

Why risk it?

- Legal action
- Damage to your business
- Possible loss of life
- Media exposure

Insist on PAA-branded LVL and plywood. It's that simple.
